

We came over here last Wednesday, but got such a late start from Barboursville that we did not reach Williamsburg in time to have a meeting at night, according to custom. We rode in about dusk and the organ was two hours late. With our two baggage-wagons, Major Lindsey (our steadfast friend and brother) driving me buggy with Mrs. Barnes, our young gentle from Beattyville in a "buck wagon," and eight of us on horseback, the caravans made quite a show, and might well have been mistaken for a circus instead of a "troupe evangelistic." Miss Ella White from Manchester, Mrs. Georgia Kelley from Beattyville, and Miss Maggie Chapman, from Barboursville, unaccompanied us. We had a delightful ride of 21 miles, the dear Lord giving us a cool, cloudy day, but without rain. We were well mounted and all fresh and happy after the successful campaign in Knob. No one can understand the exhilaration of spirit, without passing through the experiences that lead to it. It is true we are not permitted to come in in place and enjoy the fruits of labor, but the moment victory is declared for our dear completing Captain, we get marching order for another point, not yet won, but bristling with hostility. Yet there is the exquisite enjoyment of work accomplished and the soul is filled with courage for a fresh attack on other citadels of Satan, by the assurance that what has been done can be done again, by the same dear, Almighty, Prince Leader of the heavenly forces. Enough of chock is experienced to prove what we are apt to forget, that even Almighty power is limited by unclef, and omnipotent grace is powerless to bless an obstinate or obdurate human will. Our "heart's desire and prayer to God" is that all may be saved in soul and healed in body, yet all are not saved in soul nor cured in body. Many enter not in because of unclef. And Jesus now says of old in many a life, cause do "many mighty works because of unclef." O, what a thousand pities that all might be saved and cured, and yet so few are really benefited by God's wealth of mercy. The very opulence of grace becomes a pain to look at, when seen from the standpoint of such pitiful waste. All those wasted "powers of nature" in air, earth, sky and water; all the flower fragrance that "waste their sweetens on the desert air;" are but types, and feeble ones, of the exequedon transgressions of grace, scattered like base copper by prodigal hands that knew not how care for their value. What a revelation of all this will there be on "sudden day?"

On eleven o'clock Thursday the "playa" had the tent stretched in one corner of the Court House square, and at 2 P.M., the first service was held in it, with about 75 people for a congregation. Sunday afternoon, and since we have occupied the village school room on account of the rain and cold. A nice dry wind and a warmer sun today give promise of a speedy return. Preaching in the pure teach of the tent had rather spoiled me for the close, stuffy atmosphere of a crowded house, and it was almost with a shudder I entered the school-room, with its one stove-heated atmosphere to restrain, half-roasting every one within six feet of it, while those near the door were shivering, and the impure air poisoning us all. No but a frequent public speaker can fully appreciate the luxury of abundance of pure air. But when it cannot be had I have always found in it stand this: "My gone shall be sufficient for thee." O, how dear and dearest is that sweet word "sufficient" becoming to me every day. There is a misery in it that nothing but experience of "grace" to help in time of need can import.

We are "sapping and mining" yet in Williamsburg. By and by we shall march over the ramparts and plant Jesus' red and white banner on the conquered citadel, elsewhere. PRAISE THE LORD! shall go up with one accord, as the victor shout, truly for the soul and for the body have confessed His dear name who "forgive all our iniquities and beseech all our diseases." Each place of all the 37 we have visited in the last five years, has its characteristic feature of opposition. There is never anything like monotony, except that all possess in common certain aspects of hostility, while in each one there is some particular characteristic that sets it off from all the rest as certainly as the peculiarity that prevents one from being taken for any other man in the world. If I cannot point these out to everybody, the intelligent reader will understand that it is not "expedient" always to tell all one knows. "Giving none offence, neither Jews nor Gentiles, nor the Church of God," was dear Paul's rule. I want it mine, because it is God's rule.

And just here let me say that I received a letter from a valued friend, only yesterday, who takes me to task for sharpness and a "little self-will" in my letter about the Pink Cottage. Some seem to stumble at it, as if I did not take everything with becoming meekness and made the mistake of first looking to man for the payment of the mortgage and then fellowing with my friends, for not doing what I was expecting from them, instead of the Lord. To which I give brief answer, because Satan may thus take advantage of simple minds to damage to the cause of holiness. In no wise could I speak in the way of a personal defense of what I have done. I will never, by the Lord's grace, get down so low as that again. I have never yet split a drop of printer's ink in defending self or my ways, nor will I. But an important principle is involved here, and I say a few words. In Scripture we find our Jesus and Paul doing and saying continually what I did and said about the Pink Cottage. "Had it been an enemy I could have borne it, but it is my own familiar friend in whom I trusted" is the Scripture that holds in a nutshell the reason I wrote as I did. Nor Jesus nor Paul ever concealed for a moment the fact that the ingratitude and neglect of those from whom better things might have been expected cut them to the heart. I could quote scores of passages to show this. Read the gospels and epistles in prose. Nor did they fail to rebuke them again and again. Paul "enters in the text" in writing to these neglectful ones, "tiny thin-skinnedness never saved on him nor on his Master. Nor shall it on me." "Behaving sharply" in its place is just as appropriate as any other needed thing. There also judges brother after his express direction of "venom and bitterness" in falsehood where it is, and threatens not "right before God." I repeat again and again what I wrote at the Pink Cottage. I want my friends to know that I felt their neglect keenly, and that I think their conduct shameful in the extreme, simply because they were wounding the heart of Jesus in the person of His faithful servant, thus known and acknowledged to be by themselves. If, if the dear children of the Father would only learn that this is not a personal question at all, but a JESUS question. Had it only touched my lips and pen had become forever silent and unused, O, if all would only hear the words of JESUS, "Inasmuch as ye do it not unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye do it not unto Me," and apply them, the matter would be clear enough.

A few words about myself. I have described the reason I saw clearly a few seconds back, where the great two thousand, where they have access to two or three dozen and a half dozen weeklies, do not fully appreciate the value of a newspaper. They come, indeed, to look upon them as necessities, and they would as cheerfully do without their morning meal as their morning until. But one must be far off in the country, remote from cities and sevens years, appear even younger. All of them appear like the average country boy. Monroe appeared in his bare feet, wore dark pants and a striped shirt. Delaney had dark pants stuffed in his boot tops and a striped shirt. Cox wore shoes and white shirt and light pants. Cox and Monroe are printers, having worked in a printing office at San Augustine, Texas, prior to the robbery. In an interview Delaney said in substance: "We are all poor boys and live in San Augustine. We have good relatives there, and hope they will never hear of our disgrace. All of us were in love and the girls loved us. We had no money, and did not see how we could support them if we married. We were determined to get married, and so laid our plans to get money. We read about the James boys in the papers and books, saw how easy it was to rob trains and get away, and decided to rob a train. We left home three weeks ago yesterday, coming direct to Arkansas. After robbing the train we did not think we could be pursued. We were going back home with our money and there marry our girls and settle down. We had no accomplices, and we planned the whole thing ourselves. We only got eight or nine thousand dollars in cash from the express company, the bank is bank checks. Monroe and I kept the bulk of this, and all of it with the exception of a few dollars was stolen by the men who captured us, and I hope they will be sent to keep us company. I am sure we failed to get away, but was afraid like a parcel of fools after we got the money, and so we have no one to blame but ourselves."

Dying Words.

George Washington: "Let me die a little further interruption."

John Quincy Adams: "This is the last of earth—I am content."

Andrew Jackson: "Heaven will be no heaven to me if I do not meet my wife there."

Henry Clay: "My trust is in the merits of the Savior."

Daniel Webster: "I will live."

President Harrison: "Tell the people to do their own voting and thinking."

President Taylor: "I have always done my duty; I am ready to die; my only regret is for the friends I leave behind."

President Garfield, to his wife: "Rele, do not weep; God knows I have struggled hard, but, alas, to no avail; the end of all things has come."

Nest to the mounting trimmings the greatest traffic has been the large lithographic pictures of the late President and Mrs. Garfield and General Arthur, the new President. Themselves have been sold to one of almost either of the other. An employee in the principal establishment in Boston said yesterday that his concern had made a clean profit of over $10,000 up to last Saturday night. They had received orders, he said, from nearly every city and town in the United States, and he expected that the establishment would be kept running night and day to its full capacity for the next fortnight. —[Boston Herald.]

A NATURAL MISTAKE.—During Court last week one of our old citizens from the country walked into the new Court-house, and on entering the hall came to a flat stone in the paved floor upon which there is a large letters the word "Justice." He stopped, and, eyesing it carefully said, "Justice, I know you was dead, but I did not know where you was buried until now." The old gentleman seemed quite moved while viewing the tomb of his departed friend. —[Canton Eagle.]

The whole length of navigation in the Suez canal is eighty-eight miles. Of this distance sixty-six miles are actual canal formed by cutting, fourteen miles are made by dredging through lakes, and eight miles required no work, the natural depth being equal to that of the canal. The entire cost, including harbors, was about $100,000,000. It is regarded as making a saving of thirty-six days on the voyage from Western Europe to the East Indies.

MEANING LINCOLN.—The meanest man and the meanest woman are now ready and then being found, but it remains for Kentucky to furnish the meanest county. It would be required to pay the bills of two persons who eat up all night with the corpse of a pauper —[New York Times.]

According to Poor's Manual there were 219,800 miles of railroad in the world on January 1, 1880. Of this America had 100,867, Europe 102,503, Asia 9,83, Africa 3,021, and Australia 4,338 miles.

Dangerous fabrications from time to time are gotten up to cast the public and to sell on the name and reputation of Simon's Liver Regulator. In five legal decisions perpetual injunctions have been decreed by the Courts for the protection of the public and the suppression of the frauds. Therefore beware of these hurtful deceptions, and take only Simon's Liver Regulator, manufactured by J. H. Zellin & Co., in White Wrapper, with the large red Z and mother of pearl.

W. P. WALTON, - - - Editor

CHIEF JUSTICE CHARLES J. FOLGER, of New York, has been appointed, confirmed and has accepted the office of Secretary of the Treasury. He is 63 years of age, and has been in public office for a number of years. In 1869 he was appointed his United States Sub-Treasurer in New York City, which office he held for a year, when he was elected Judge of the Court of Appeals. On the death of Chief Justice Church in 1880, Governor Cornell appointed him Chief Justice. He gives up a $12,000 office, with two years to run, but that's a small matter when we consider that after a short service as Treasurer, that is all over! Considering however, that he is to give the life position of U. S. Judge, Folger's appointment seems to give general satisfaction.

OSSIAN E. BALDWIN, for over 30 years the trusted cashier of the Merchants National Bank of Newark, N. J., has turned out to be a defaulter to the tune of over two millions of dollars, and the institution has collapsed. He says that the losses were caused by lending money to parties without consulting the Directors or taking security, but it is more probable that he has been gambling or trying his hand in Wall Street. Bank men can not be too particular with their employees, and had the Directors exercised the necessary carefulness they would not now mope on heavy losses.

DR. W. W. TAYLOR, well known in Garfield, some time ago obtained a divorce from his wife in Chicago, and married Miss Florence White, an accomplished young lady of Louisville. They went to Chicago to live, where the first wife had been arrested for procuring the divorce from her husband, and on the trial of the case it was pronounced null and void. Dr. Taylor will probably go to the penitentiary for perjury, while the two women he has so fearfully wronged will go down in sorrow to their graves, because of the disgrace that has been put upon them.

The Senate adjourned Saturday after sitting up all of Friday night, the Republicans endeavoring to confirm the appointment of one of Mahone's Recruiters as Postmaster of Lynchburg, and the Democrats opposing it. Wilson, the incumbent, though a wounded ex-Union soldier, was to be turned out because he had denounced Mahone and his ticket, and the administration wanted to put itself on the side of repudiation. The Democrats succeeded in preventing the confirmation, but Arthur has since appointed him, and can keep him in till the meeting of Congress.

The Virginia election, which comes off next Tuesday, will be one of the most hotly-contested ever held in that State. The whole weight of the Government is on the side of repudiation, but we have an abiding faith in the honesty and integrity of the people, besides fine reports from the canvass, to induce the belief that the crowning dishonor sought to be put upon her will be averted.

The National debt, less cash in the Treasury is $1,785,634,466. The interest on this is $90,662,245, whereas on July 1, 1865, when the debt was at its highest point, the interest was $151,000,000. It is said that at the rate the debt is being paid off, it will be wiped out entirely in ten years, if no reduction is made in the revenues and no adverse legislation had.

TALMAGE preached about newspapers last Sunday, and characterized them as the greatest temporal blessing God has given this century. It is well for a man to acknowledge his greatest benefactor. Talmage would never have been known outside of Brooklyn had not the newspapers taken him up tenderly.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR is 51, weighs 215 pounds, and is said to be a very handsome man. The wood cut makers must have a particular eye against him if the latter report is true. They all give him the appearance of a brawny Dutch butcher, with not a redeeming feature.

It takes a renegade Confederate to do them all when he tries. Longstreet, who for the leaves and fishes, sold himself to the Confederacy, has appointed his chief assistant in the office of marshal of Georgia.

LOGAN R. McKEE, a thorough gentleman and an accomplished scholar, has resumed editorial work on the Denville Tribune, and will make it again what it was under his former charge, a most readable and decent paper.

The editor of the Courier-Journal announces himself a candidate for President in 1884, subject to the decision of the Republicans' Convention. We hope that if he is nominated John Kaylor will be made Vice-President.

If the Richmond Herald men can not discuss the great constitutional questions of the day with us without running into politics, we will give him an exhibition of our manhood that will last him many a day.

The Democratic County Committee of Mercer resolved to put no candidate's name on the primary election books until he shall have paid his pro rata of expenses, a capital idea.

The Kentucky Central bridge over the Kentucky river has been set at $20,000.

The Bourbon Register tells of the partially ruined remains of a snake found in Wayne county that measures 27 feet in length and 16 inches in circumference.

Some dirty miscreant, says the Journal, shot and killed a mule belonging to Mr. Butler. Hanging is too good for feds who vent their spite in that manner.

The Elizabethtown News has dictated its patent outside, and now throws off its edition from a cylinder press at the rate of 900 per hour. This indicates that the News is prospering, and we heartily glad of it.

Milton Davis, a wealthy farmer of Woodford, came near being the victim of an assassin's ball the other night. He is 63 years of age, and has been in public office for a number of years. In 1869 he was appointed his United States Sub-Treasurer in New York City, which office he held for a year, when he was elected Judge of the Court of Appeals. NOTES OF CURRENT EVENTS.

A train was stopped near Little Rock, Ark., the other day, and a negro accused of rape took off and hung.

The opening up of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad has reduced the price of coal at Lexington from 28 to 14 cents.

Edgelfield, S. C., was almost totally destroyed by fire Saturday. Among the losses is the law office of Senator Butler. Total loss over $100,000.

The O. & M. elevator at Cincinnati, containing 125,000 bushels of wheat, was totally destroyed by fire Friday morning. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

November 2d, ninety-eight years ago, Washington issued from his headquarters, Rocky Hill, near Princeton, his farewell orders to the American Army.

Mr. S. S. Parker, recently (I. F. A. and G. T. A. of the Short-line), has been appointed General Ticket Agent of the I. & N., with headquarters at Cincinnati.

It is proposed in Boston to celebrate on the 18th of January next the centennial anniversary of Daniel Webster's birth. Last Monday was the 20th anniversary of his death.

Cincinnati is to have a Union Railroad Depot. The entire cost of the enterprise will be in round numbers $1,000,000 of which the buildings and track plant will be about half the whole cost.

A negro nurse got used because her master accused her of stealing, and wreaked her vengeance by giving the little child a dose of carbolic acid, killing it instantly. She was lodged in the Lexington jail.

P. M. General James has been re-appointed to that office by Arthur. This is done to prevent any quibble about his authority, as it is claimed that his term of office expired a month after Garfield's death.

Gen. Wickham, Republican, of Virginia, declared that Daniel, the debt payer, will be elected Governor by 20,000 majority. That will be a noble triumph of Democratic honesty over Republican repudiation.—[C. J.]

Frank Hatton, the newly appointed First Assistant P. M. General, used to be a newsboy. At the time of his appointment he was the proprietor of the Burlington Hawkeye, one of the most noted of the Western papers.

Dr. Bliss is just beginning to know what real trouble is. A prominent medical journal says, in substance, that he crowded himself into the case and then blundered so notoriously as to create a general distrust of doctors.

—Lock No. 1 on the Kentucky River, which had been under construction for two years and had cost thousands of dollars, was washed away Monday, and all prospects of navigating above that point is knocked in the head for some time.

It is estimated that the reduction of the public debt for the current month will exceed $15,000,000. The receipts from all sources will aggregate about $36,000,000, while the expenses, including the payment of $4,000,000 of pension claims, will be about $16,000,000.

—General Drew, in his annual report to the General of the Army, says that the losses of the army during the year were—Death, 248; discharges, 6,563; desertions, 2,361; total, 9,173. Number of soldiers recruited, 1,964; total, 5,763. The army now numbers a little over 20,000 men.

—A fast train has put out between New York and Chicago and makes the distance in twenty-six hours, allowing one hour for difference of time between the two cities. The train does not stop for meals but carries a palace dining-car, all-wool carpet. There was not a drop of tobacco juice upon the floor occupied by them. Next, that "everybody is more or less indignant." "Physiology." What is it? Two or three—five at the most—have come along the man unaccused and the meeting unattended. What do you say? "Campbellite." I'm worn there. We can't see what you found to kick at, as you did not honor (?) the "colored divine" with your super-eminent presence. Well, as your ears are pretty long we would not be surprised if it was not your nature to kick whether you have anything to kick at or not. Next, let us love the Lord and all his people, but let us not affect a hypocrisy while force us to take back seats in our own house of worship." "On our honor!" What could be greater hypocrisy than claiming a house and membership to which he has no right, and for him to talk about the "house of the Lord" is like casting out devils in the name of Beelzebub. There has certainly been great love for all God's people manifested in this shameful misrepresentation of their church and worship. Now we leave the matter with the people, and will say in conclusion to "Campbellite" that, although we in our heart believe that dote formosus facti, we would advise you in the future to not allow your mind to be so easily swayed by another and hereafter when you wish to warn "indifferent churchmen" please do so by private letter and as an exhibition of our "highly-colored and rose-scented charity" we will admit or rain on the other lakes. The sixth storm will develop about Lake Superior on the 14th and 15th, and move nearly South east to Boston on the 15th or 16th, producing heavy snow at that place and in the adjoining region on the eve of the 16th and during the 16th, and clouding and warmer weather with rain in our section on the 17th and 18th. The seventh and heaviest storm of the month will develop in the Gulf States about the 13th to 16th, moving over the South Atlantic States on the 16th, developing terrific energy on the whole coast, from Norfolk to Halifax, on the 16th, 17th and 18th, with snow or very cold rain in the Ohio Valley, and snow in most of the Atlantic States. The 8th storm will probably appear in the Middle Missouri Valley about the 20th, and move East to Lake Erie on the 20th to 23d. It will probably produce some rain in the Ohio Valley, but it appears to be of small importance. The ninth storm will appear in Texas about the 21st to 23d, moving Northward along the West and North sides of the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys (nearly parallel to the rivers) on the 23d to the 27th.

The first cold wave of importance will pass over the country from the 17th to the 20th, reaching our section about the 18th and 19th. The second will probably occur about the 27th and 28th. The last day of November will doubtless prove very interesting to his horses.

On last Saturday afternoon the little son of Mrs. Wm. Warren was thrown from a rockway on Main street. Though he received some severe cuts and bruises about the head, the skull is not injured and he is doing well.

Danielle is to be visited by the attractive Comedy Company of John R. Rogers, who will give entertainment at James Hall on Monday night, November 7th, playing "My Sweetheart." The troupe will doubtless be provided with a full house.

—Nine car-loads of cattle were shipped from our depot last Saturday night.... Clover seed is selling at $8 per bushel.... Corn is very dull and about twenty-five cents per barrel lower in the city. Prices hold up here, and $3 to $3.50 is being paid.... Very few transactions in our local grain market. Dealers report little or nothing being done.

Logan McKee is once more in connection with the Telegraph, but will continue to hold his office with the U. S. Government.... Miss Emma Green, of Mayville, who furnishes music, with an organ, for the services. These meetings are still attended and the interest in them is considerable. There had been eleven confessions and restorations up to Monday evening last. The evangelists expect to remain over next Sunday.

The next Legislature ought to do one of two things: Either abolish the sale of whisky entirely in this country, or repeal the present so-called prohibitory law. Under the existing state of things, the law—a statute most vague and uncertain in terms—is evaded without the least difficulty, and the pretense that Rockcastle is a local option county is worse than a pretense; it is a humbug, a sham and a delusion.

—Our people naturally feel a little sore over the humiliating fact that President Arthur, immediately upon his accession to the Presidency, did not send for our own Hon. John D. White, by whose counsels he might have been greatly aided in the beginning of his administration. However, it is consoling to think that, because of this very short eighteenths of the new President, if his administration shall prove a failure, Mr. White can not be responsible for it.

The Sheriff is pressing the people for their taxes, and, of course, there is considerable grumbling. The Sheriff ought not to be blamed. The County Court has determined to change the former practice of allowing him three or four years to collect and settle, and has ordered him to collect and account for all the taxes of 1881, by the fourth Monday in July next. For his own protection, therefore, he is compelled to press the people. Certainly, he will never be able to squeeze money out of them unless he does press them. "That stands to reason."

—James—Judge McClure will go to Seaboard Care, Saturday, to hold a special term of Court for the trial of some road cases.... A special term of the County Court will be held on the 14th inst., for the trial of the case of the Commonwealth vs. Isaac Colley, for bawdry.... County Evans indicted for carrying concealed weapons at the last term of Circuit Court, and who has been at large on a bond of $100, was brought to town last Saturday by his bondsmen, and surrendered to the jailor. After he got home before his surrender, Gentry made a dash for liberty, but Andrew Bray, one of his bondsmen, soon ran him down. On Tuesday evening was tried before Judge McClure and fined $5 and given ten days in jail.

—Marion Cook was kicked on the back of the head by a vicious mule about two weeks ago, from which he has not fully recovered.

—Mr. Eph White, of Lincoln, has rented the Portman farm of W. P. Tate for next year.... Mr. Wm. Miller has sold his property in Middlebury for $800.

—Mr. John O. Stotan raised a radish in his garden that measured 34 inches in length, 27 inches in circumference and weighed 12 pounds. It would have weighed much more if it had been solid.

—Mr. Sam Rayburn has moved into the house recently occupied by Nick Hatter.... New Lawmen & Wheel have opened a new stock of dry goods, &c., at the storehouse formerly occupied by G. O. Fair.... Wm. H. Wall and family left on Tuesday for Missouri.... Mrs. O. D. Jasper is visiting her relatives in Illinois.

that we do not think this attack was pre-meditated, but was merely written on the spur of the moment, and we can't believe it was malice that prompted you to publish this dangerous article against your fellow citizens, friends and neighbors; and after reading this our long ears gently lay back and your head quietly raises, just kick away as much as you please.

In the grand jury has used much diligence in all its duties as it has in a certain case, law-breakers had better stand from under. Why, they actually indicted the editor of this paper for "issuing a lottery," as a negro called it, when everybody knew that there never was a milder, meeker, more inoffensive and gentle creature than he. We shall see that jury for libel it can't get somebody to "sell the hilt" for them.

INTERIOR - Rev. W. H. Milburn, the blind orator, delivered three of his most interesting lectures at the Methodist Church, this week, under the auspices of a dozen young gentlemen, who gave him $50, losing thereby $20, or $17.50 each. This shows very sadly that our people will not attend such entertainments, no matter how valuable the lecture, nor how worthy of patronage the lecturer, and it does not speak well for us. Last night Prof. Abner Rogers, on his own responsibility, got Mr. Milburn to deliver another lecture, subject: "John Randolph, of Roanoke," and we hope the people did not allow him to lose by it.

BRIGHT BURNED - A curious accident happened to Mr. H. W. Shultz, railroad agent at McKinney, Monday. He had been here to Court and was returning in a buggy with Mr. Emerson Prickett when the latter discovered that the top of the vehicle was on fire. He endeavored to another the horses with the rug, but they had gained so much headway as to make it impossible, and they sprang out to hold the horse. Fortunately the wind was blowing in an opposite direction, and although the top turned to the spring, the horse was not scorched. The fire was caused by sparks from Mr. Shultz's cigar, which fell in the lining and caught.

THE advertisement of Mr. J. C. Thompson can not fail to attract the attention of the readers of the INTERIOR JOURNAL.

Mr. Thompson has the largest stock of fine jewelry outside of Louisville, and as he is a clever gentleman and sells low, we ask for him a liberal patronage.

Some fellow threw a stone into the room occupied by Messrs. Joe E. Waters and John P. Gilliam, the other night, with such force as to not only break out the window, but carry the curtain across the room and partially missing the head of Mr. W. It might have been done for fun, but we do not relish that kind and another collision offer a reward for the miscreant.

THE cold, dreary days of November are upon us, and thoughtful people are crowding to the large establishment of J. W. Hayden to lay in their Cloaks, Dalmations, heavy Winter Wrappings and Overcoats, of which he has a very large and comprehensive stock. His prices are such that none go away empty, so if you have not already interviewed him do so at once while the assortment is full, and get the "pick."
